

Western Colorado, Heart of Scenic Rocky Mountains, a Treasure Chest of Beauty for American Tourist

WESTERN COLORADO, heart of the scenic Rocky Mountains, is a treasure chest of mountain beauty. Starting at Glenwood Springs, famed for its Strawberry Queen festival and huge outdoor hot springs swimming pool, the Magic Circle takes you to Trapper's Lake; Meeker and its rodeos; Palisade noted for peaches; Grand Mesa world's largest flat-top mountain which has 200 lakes; Grand Junction and Colorado National Monument; Aspen, famed mining town which has been reborn with music festivals and skiing; and the Maroon Bells, nature's masterpiece.

Editor's Note: This is the 31st in a series of suggested highway tour maps which the Hope Star is publishing weekly. This is excellent material to cut out and paste up in a scrapbook for future reference when planning your vacation trip.

To Coloradans it's the "Western Slope." To the rest of America it is a treasure chest of alpine grandeur, wildflowers, fine highways, motor-minded lodging. For those who like to explore "back country," there are good graded roads that penetrate untouched mountain beauty.

Separated from the eastern half of Colorado by the Continental Divide, this is a scenic empire of uranium and oil, cattle and sheep, fruit and fishing.

The Magic Circle of this all-year vacation land begins in Glenwood Springs. From a chair lift to the top of Red Mountain, used by skiers in winter and sightseers the other seasons, you look down on the shiny, clean little city and its famous outdoor swimming pool.

This around-the-calendar pool, long as two football fields, is continuously fed by mineral springs. Frothy, boiling water gushes into one side; cold spring water flows in on the opposite side. In the winter, clouds of vapor caress the swimmers. It is as much fun to day as I remember it from boyhood.

Spectacular Canyon

Approach to the town from the east is through spectacular Glenwood Canyon, whose layers of shale-like cliffs rise straight up from the sometimes soggy, sometimes turbulent Colorado River. The canyon is just wide enough for a safe highway (U. S. 6 & 24) on one side of the river and the Rio Grande railroad on the other.

Motorists enjoy timing their trip to watch the east and west-bound vista dome streamliners, as they snake their way into the appointed meeting place.

Glenwood Springs, one of the first towns in America to choose a queen, started it with the Strawberry Festival in 1898. The whole countryside still assembles every year to celebrate at huge tables with bowls of over-sized strawberries, cake and ice cream. Choosing of the queen from Western Slope contestants is the climax to square dance and Colorado River boat race events. In August, the winner competes with similar queens from other states in the National Strawberry Queen Contest, which also is held in Glenwood Springs.

From here you can drive west for 90 miles to Grand Junction on a 60 mile an hour highway. But we choose adventure by leaving the pavement at New Castle for a county road north that climbs through juniper and pinon to a 9,000-foot crest, overlooking the virgin timbered world of White River National Forest.

Turning east at Buford (State 132), whole hillsides of Indian Paintbrush and lavender and white columbines — Colorado's state flower — please both the eye and the color film in your camera.

Reward of Road

Trapper's Lake is the reward at the end of the road. Set in a giant's cup, it is a jeweled mirror that reflects the changing colors, from dawn to sunset, of snow-dusted Amphitheater Mountain. Reputed to be the crater of a long-dead volcano, this bottomless lake abounds in big Rainbow trout.

The return trip leads to Meeker, a bustling cattle and oil town famed in pioneer annuals as scene of the Meeker Massacre. The officers' quarters at old Fort Meeker have been preserved. Held annually is the Junior Rodeo, a "prep school" for little cowboys who, in later years, will compete in Meeker's Range Rodeo.

The Magic Circle turns south (State 13) for Rifle, location of uranium and vanadium processing plants. Here you rejoin U. S. 6 & 24 and continue west between the Colorado River and lowering Book Cliffs, rich in oil shale.

The eastern visitor will be amazed at the newly improved, boulevard-like highway through De Beque Canyon which widens out, at Palisade, into the flat floor of a valley, carpeted from canyon wall to canyon wall with peach trees. In May it is a solid mass of pink blossoms, dominated by Mt. Garfield.

Big Flat-Top

However, before reaching Palisade, we turned out of De Beque Canyon (onto State 65) for Grand Mesa said to be the largest flat-topped mountain in the world and were transported into an evergreen-clad land of more than 200 lakes whose sky-reflected blue waters abound in trout.

Unpublicized is a drive along the lava rim of Grand Mesa where, looking north across to Battlement Mountain, you get the breathtaking effect of a gorge reminiscent of the Grand Canyon in Arizona.

This graded rim-road leads to Land's End for the view of a valley one mile deep and 30 miles wide.

Next stop is modern, fast-growing Grand Junction, largest city in western Colorado, hub of scenic, industrial activity and a headquarters of the Atomic Energy Commission.

From here there is a short circle trip to Colorado National Monument, where nature welded a generous red paintbrush to cover a wonderland of eroded sandstone formations and canyons. The National Park Service has engineered an amazing paved road that loops through the park, via tunnels, to show off the flaming monoliths.

Cuban Troop Movements Worry Castro

By ROBERT BERRELLE

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Widespread troop movements were reported today in Cuba with Fidel Castro's government showing concern over mounting counter-revolutionary activity.

Secret police seized an arms cache in a Havana suburb Thursday. They arrested eight men in a case they described as having "the most important counter-revolutionary implications."

Troop reinforcements are reportedly moving into eastern Cuba, where 41 persons have been arrested for acts of sabotage, and into western Cuba, where guerrilla bands are operating in the mountains.

Much of the unrest stems from the government's agrarian reform program breaking up big estates.

Among the eight men seized in the Havana raid were six police described as "former military men." The implication was they served in the forces under former dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Steel Plant Re-Opened at Cleveland

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—The strike-crippled Republic Steel Corp. has reopened parts of its plant here, but many steelworkers defiantly stayed off the job today.

They continued to ignore orders from local union leaders and a plea from David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers' president, who is trying to negotiate a new contract with 13 major steel companies in New York.

The talks resumed today after recessing while union leaders sought to end a series of wildcat strikes.

Another USW wildcat strike halted about 30 ore boats on the Great Lakes and resulted in a shutdown of U.S. Steel Corp.'s Mesabi iron range mines Thursday night. Some 4,300 workers are employed at the mines.

U.S. Steel said no matter how fast Joseph Chrobak, president of USW Local 5000, gets the crews back on the ships, it will be early next week before the mines can be reopened.

However, before reaching Palisade, we turned out of De Beque Canyon (onto State 65) for Grand Mesa said to be the largest flat-topped mountain in the world and were transported into an evergreen-clad land of more than 200 lakes whose sky-reflected blue waters abound in trout.

Kozlov Mission Hasn't Eased Berlin Problem

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prof. R. Kozlov shed his diplomatic role today for a sightseeing mission which will carry him across the United States.

The Soviet deputy premier, after a 21-day Washington visit, planned a hop to Sacramento, Calif., to start a 10-day swing through a half dozen American cities.

It might be called "Communist infiltration" of the U.S.A., Kozlov joked.

Lunch with Gov. Edmund G. Brown highlighted his scheduled stop at the California capital. Then it was on to San Francisco, for more meetings.

Kozlov's diplomatic pursuits wound up Thursday night with a big reception at the Soviet embassy. The sum total: Neither

Vice President Richard M. Nixon had one more 15-minute private chat with the Communist visitor. "He is a master at being friendly," Nixon reported afterwards, "but that doesn't mean that there was progress."

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter gave a similar account of his hour-long meeting with Kozlov before flying to his Manchester, Mass., home for a holiday week-end.

And from the reports he had received of Kozlov's nationwide telecast Thursday, Herter said, there seemed to be nothing in it that he hadn't heard from the Soviets in six fruitless weeks at Geneva.

The Soviet leader called for a wiping away of the distrust which he said has marred Russo-American relations since World War II, to be replaced by a more friendly "peaceful coexistence" as a foundation of world progress.

Kidnap Charge Filed in Case at Springdale

SPRINGDALE, Ark. (AP)—As six-year-old Barbara Ann Wentz played happily at her home today, authorities planned to file a kidnap charge against a paroled convict who admitted forcing her into his automobile.

Officers arrested Vernon Eastep, 36, of Rogers, at a roadblock near Springdale early yesterday.

Hundreds of volunteers helped police search for the child, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Wentz of Springdale, after she was reported missing after a visit to a grocery Wednesday afternoon.

Barbara Ann was unhurt except for bruises on her throat where apparently she had been choked. She was returned to her home after examination at a hospital.

Prosecutor Ted Coxey talked to the girl yesterday and announced later he would file the abduction charge against Eastep.

"I ask Circuit Judge Maupin Cummings to set a substantial bond, at least as much as he would set in a murder case," Coxey said.

Sheriff Hollis Spencer, who arrested Eastep, quoted him as saying he made the child enter his car while she was on her way home from the store. Eastep told the sheriff he did not know why he did it.

Brown-eyed, dark-haired Barbara Ann apparently went through her eight-hour ordeal in the car without breaking down, her father said, but burst into tears when reunited with her parents.

She had a good sleep after coming home from the hospital and later went out to play in good spirits, Wentz told newsmen.

Today she returned to her games again.

Eastep, separated from his wife and the father of a three-year-old daughter, was paroled from the Arkansas penitentiary last October after completing part of a two-year sentence for forgery and uttering.

He was held on an open charge at Fayetteville after his arrest.

Methodists Plan Vacation School

Vacation School will begin at the Methodist Church Monday morning, July 6th. All children from the Three-Year Nursery through Junior Number Two will participate. The courses of instruction will be as follows:

Nursery: "Summer With Nursery Children," by Schuler; Kindergarten: "God and His World," by Young; Primary and Lower Juniors: "The Earth Is Full of His Riches," by Upper Juniors: "Finding God Through Work and Worship," by McWhorter.

An excellent staff of instructors will be in charge of each age group, and sessions will be held each morning from 9 until 11 o'clock Monday through Friday.

Washington Is Restoring Many Things Including an Organ Dating Back 69 Years Ago

By MARY ANITA LASETER

"Church organs are old fashioned," was the consensus of opinion about 30 years ago when the congregation at the First Presbyterian Church of Washington decided to sell their instrument and get a "modern piano."

There arose the problem, then, of what to do with the old-fashioned pump organ. When someone offered to buy it for $15, the ready to accept — that is, all but Mrs. Nollie Trimble Butler.

Rather than see the little walnut organ taken away, Mrs. Butler bought it herself. It would have been like putting a dear member of the family into a foreign land without friends, she felt. And it was such a pretty little instrument, though some could only see how much easier it was to play a piano.

Well, maybe a piano might have advantages over a four-octave organ. If such an organ had only 11 "stops," the proformer was further limited. The out-dated accompanying instrument for hymns had been purchased after fire had destroyed the old Presbyterian Church at Washington in the 1890's and the present church was being furnished.

Though the ownership of the organ was transferred to Mrs. Butler, the Washington Presbyterian Church was where its residence remained until a few weeks ago. At that time, a local man, Guy Grigg, undertook the job of cleaning and repairing of the organ's cabinet in preparation for moving it to the parlor of the Trimble home at Washington. After about 70 hours of work, the restoration of this product of the Kistey Organ Manufacturing Company of Brattleborough, Vt., which at the date of manufacture, 1890, was the only organ that received repair by a company in St. Louis, Mo., in 1918 and from one in Little Rock in 1933.

Someone in a neighboring city has tuned and restored the beauty of its sound, but it has been made more mellow in tone by the red felt which replaces the worn reed silk seen through the lattice-work of its graceful back.

From its foisted stool to its four brackets for lamps, the solid walnut organ that was ready to be discarded for a more pittance when it was 40 years old, is now one of the most beautiful and treasured objects in the old Trimble home at Washington.

Saturday, the Washington Community Accomplishment is sponsoring the second annual July 4th Homecoming, with former governor Ben Loney of Magnolia giving the principal address at the ground-breaking ceremony for the restoration of the famous old tavern at 2 Saturday.

Other signs of progress in the restoration of this cradle of Arkansas history can be seen now and in the future. One small but beautiful item to thus be returned to life is the tiny organ in the cleaning and repairing of the organ's cabinet in preparation for moving it to the parlor of the

Traffic Officials Hope to Keep Fatalities Low

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic safety officials across the nation mustered all their strength and ingenuity today to keep motorists from killing themselves and others. The Fourth of July holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council predicted that 350 persons will die in traffic accidents during the 54-hour holiday period from 6 p.m. local time today to midnight Sunday.

The traffic department for the area-day July 4 weekend last year was 370.

State patrol officers for a crushing schedule of traffic. In addition to swarms of patrol cars, plans called for the use of planes, electronic speed detection devices, "ghost" patrol cars strung along highways, roadblocks to watch out for tired or otherwise incapacitated drivers, and, in many instances, arrests instead of warnings for traffic law violations.

Civic and business organizations joined in to help. The slaughter of American Legionnaires at 43 points of entry into Iowa will hand out "Slow down and live" pamphlets to motorists. The Iowa Outdoor Advertising Assn. posted 150 billboards listing speed limits and warning of patrol planes and radar enforcement.

Consequently, which boasts the nation's safest highway, adopted a new safety slogan and it's applicable all the time, not just this weekend. The slogan is "Drive safely—the car behind you may be a police car."

"Ghost" (unmanned) police cars will be waiting for the unwary driver on the New York State Thruway. Authorities feel the mere sight of a police car will cause speeders to slow down.

California announced just ahead of the holiday that the driver's license of anyone convicted of drunken driving, including first offenders, would be suspended automatically for six months.

The high court, now in summer recess, held a special session yesterday and issued a stay order which holds in abeyance a ruling issued by Chancellor Lee Ward at Marion earlier this week.

Ward directed the West Memphis Utility Commission to let Edmonds or any other citizen see its books during business hours.

The chancellor also issued an injunction to keep the commission from making contracts with firms in which commission members have an interest. Edmonds asked for this action in a taxpayer's suit.

Four of the Supreme Court's seven justices were present at the special session.

Attorneys for the commission said it wanted its records kept from public view until the high court makes a final ruling on appeal. In its request for a stay, the commission argued that it would suffer harm and embarrassment if the public is allowed to inspect its records.

The commission operates West Memphis' water and electric systems.

Edmonds has two other suits pending against West Memphis city officials, one to keep them from giving business to firms in which they have any financial interest and another which demands they follow legal procedures in their actions.

New Champ Offered a Movie Contract

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A movie producer has offered Ingemar Johansson, recently crowned heavyweight boxing champion, $250,000 for the right to film the story of his life. Ron Waller, halfback with the Los Angeles Rams professional football team and off-season producer, wired the offer to Hildale, Fla., where Johansson is vacationing.

To Offer Prayer to Ban Liquor Sales

EDMONT, Okla. (AP)—Dr. M. E. Ramey, pastor of the First Baptist Church here, says he will personally offer a prayer at each opening of a liquor store in Edmond that the store be closed immediately. Oklahoma voters repealed 51 years of prohibition in April and sales are expected to start about Sept. 1.

Fireworks Kill Two Young Boys

KAUSPELL, Mont. (AP)—Two youngsters left by their parents to play with fireworks stand were killed Thursday when a fire and explosion demolished the wooden structure. The bodies of Linda Helseth, about 10, and Richard Stucke, about 13, were found inside the charred wreckage.

Youth Lucky to Be Hit By a Car

GARDEN GROVE, Calif. (AP)—Two months ago 4-year-old J. Byron Patterson, rushed into the street, was hit by a car and dragged 11 feet.

A leg and ribs were broken. He underwent four-hour brain surgery for multiple head injuries. Yet his mother says: "For his sake, it's the best thing that has ever happened."

Since the accident the boy, 6, most deaf since birth, has begun to hear.

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.
NFA recent issue of the daily edited "Bible Society Record," two items related to the late com- ment and heroic Bishop Eivind Berggrav of Norway, leader of the resistance during the Nazi occupation of that country.

One item sadly recorded his recent death. It gave an account of his distinguished career, especially during his years as president of the Norwegian Bible Society, and of his work in larger international activities, promoting "the new binding together of men and women of various countries in the great united cause of the spread of the Bible among all men."

The other item about Bishop Berggrav emphasized what the family have returned home from a visit with their daughter, Mrs. Wrenford Cox and family of Chicago. They were accompanied home by their daughter, Judy, who has been visiting her sister and family for the past two weeks. Larry and Tommy attended the ball game there between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs.

Mrs. Fred Russell and daughter, Judy, left Thursday for Los Angeles, Calif., where they will visit Mrs. Russell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. F. May and also her brother, Dale May and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Reppend and daughters, Debra Kay and Sharon Lynn, of Little Rock, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Gibson at Patmos. The Reppends and Mrs. Gibson spent Wednesday in Homer La., with the Thomas Gibson family.

Mrs. Jack Hartsfield, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Hartsfield and Jackie Sue have gone to Atlanta, Ga., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Forest Hutson.

Paul A. Lewis returned home Thursday from Houston, Tex., where Mrs. Lewis recently underwent major surgery in the Methodist Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reese, Mrs. John Hartsfield, Miss Linda Kay Reese, and Miss Gail Hartsfield left Friday morning for Arlington, Tex., to visit Mr. and Mrs. Pat Conner. Misses Reese and Hartsfield will remain for a two-weeks visit.

Mrs. Calvin Parker and daughter, Virginia, of Norfolk, Va., will visit Mrs. Catherine Howard and Mrs. E. S. Richards the next two weeks. Mrs. Howard will meet them in Little Rock, Saturday.

Mrs. S. L. Churchwell of Chattanooga, Tenn., arrived Wednesday night for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Lile Allen. Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Churchwell Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Bryan Ruggles.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hartsfield and Jerry have gone to Oklahoma City, Okla., to get their daughter, Judy, who has been visiting relatives there.

A Swiss industrialist named Mr. Burkholder was a visitor in our city last week and was the Rotary Club guest of Guy E. Basye on Friday.

Bill Routon is on a business trip to Lufkin, Tex., and was accompanied by his son, Ralph.

Bible meant to him as a book of liberty, and how much dictators and oppressors have to fear from the reading and spread of the Bible. This is how the "Bible Society Record" tells the story during the time the Bishop was a prisoner.

"On the first Sunday of the year 1942 Bishop Eivind Berggrav, leader of the resistance in Norway, was allowed to write a letter to his wife. In it he mentioned the text for the day from his Lutheran prayer book. He wrote: '... he hath sent me to preach the broken-hearted, to teach deliverance to the captives, and to set at liberty them that are bruised' (Luke 4:18)."

"The letter was composed by the chief of police in Oslo, who called the Bishop's wife to his office. After she had read the letter, the chief said to her, 'I order you to write to your husband and tell him that from now on, he is forbidden to quote the Bible, for it is much too up-to-date.'"

"Forbidden to quote the Bible." How accurately the Nazi representative realized how much he, and all like him, had to fear from the Bible. The Bible is, among many things, very many, but among the many is its outstanding greatness as a book of liberty of every kind.

It has been a symbol through the ages of many crusades and movements from bondage to freedom.

It is the story of how in that emerging Jewish nation there were social enactments for the protection of the community against the lawless, and the self-servers who disregarded the rights of others and the welfare of all.

It is the story of the protection of individuals, ages before the Common Law of England and the Bill of Rights, of measures to prevent a debtor becoming a slave, of Cities of Refuge in which even one who had done wrong could find protection, "the safeguards for individual rights and liberties in that ancient Jewish society is amazing, but it is there in the Bible.

Flag Tourney at Country Club July 4

The annual Fourth of July Flag Tournament will get under way at the Hope Country Club Saturday morning starting at 11 a. m. This tournament is a handicap affair, therefore, only those players who have been turning in their scorecards will be eligible to participate, since handicaps have been figured from these cards. Each player competing will be given 68 strokes and a handicap. When all of these strokes are used up, the player sticks his flag up where the ball came to rest on his final stroke. Some players may not have enough strokes to complete 18 holes and others will have strokes left over, thus being able to play one or more extra holes. The winner is determined by which flag is the furthest advanced when all players have finished.

Summer rules are in effect for this tournament, meaning that the ball may not be touched between the tee and green. No player may cause the ball to move unless it is in an unplayable lie. In this case the ball may be moved and a two stroke penalty will be assessed. There will be no "gimmie" putts.

A Driving Contest and Pitch and Put contest will follow the regular tournament. Trophies will be awarded for all events.

wrote was primarily the freedom of the Christian from the ritualisms and the appeasing sacrifices which even Israel's greatest prophets had questioned. "To obey is better than sacrifice." But what Paul wrote in Galatians 6, has a larger meaning for society. In a few words: "Bent ye one another's burdens" and "Every man shall bear his own burdens." Saint Paul set forth the essential, fundamental basis of a well-ordered, and well-being society for individual responsibility and responsibility for social welfare.

Disposition Changes as the Dody Adjusts

By DOROTHY DIX

Dear Dorothy Dix: Nothing would make me happier than to renew the good relationship I once had with my mother-in-law. For 11 years we were blessed with deep love, devotion and understanding but in the past few months this has changed. She is no longer gay but is constantly complaining of this or that ailment. If she's not bewailing the state of her health, it's the state of her budget. She practically demands sympathy at every turn. I was patient with the change for a time but now it's getting boring. I'm afraid my attitude shows because she is getting quite different to me. Am I getting cold-hearted if so, what can I do about it, Jennifer A.

Dear Jennifer: If you permit this thing to get out of hand, you'll never regain the pleasant relationship you once had. Your mother-in-law's change of disposition is undoubtedly due to physical changes that are annoying, but temporary. She needs sympathy—and handling. Take her to a good doctor, preferably a gynecologist with time to explain things to her. You listen, too, you'll be in the same boat someday. Talk to the doctor alone and get his advice on just how much your mother-in-law should be pampered and how much she should be ignored. I have a leaflet on menopause, prepared for me by an M.D. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. It will help both you and your mother-in-law. Get her around to see new things, meet different people, try other activities. If you can go on a vacation together—and you can keep your patience—it will help a lot.

Dear Dorothy Dix: My 12-year-old brother has been on the wrong foot for several years. Mother has tried to strip him out, so have many other people. Nothing seems to change him. Now I'd like to try. How can I go about it? He steals, lies, talks back and fights.—Kitty

Dear Kitty: Brother is a case for a child psychologist—not a slightly older sister. Mother better get expert advice or her young hoodlum will turn into a full-grown hood.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Pete and I have known each other for three years and have been engaged for one. The wedding date is set and, as it approaches, Pete's eyes and

Take a tip from the experts ... in their own words ... and from on-the-record facts and figures: More than ever, Chevrolet gives you more than any other of the leading low-priced three! More room to relax in, for instance. A sampling of official dimensions reported to A.M.A.* makes this clear. Chevy front seat hip room, for one thing, is up to 5.9 inches wider than comparable cars. And Chevy even offers more front seat head room than all but one of the high-priced cars!

Best Brakes Not only bigger, but built with bonded linings for up to 66% longer life. Just to prove what's what, Chevy out-stopped both of the "other two" in a NASCAR-conducted test of repeated stops from highway speeds.

Best Style It's the only car of the leading low-priced 3 that's unmistakably modern in every line. "In its price class," says POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, "a new high in daring styling."

Best Engine Every motor magazine has given Chevrolet's standard and Corvette V8's unstinted praise. As SPORTS CARS ILLUSTRATED puts it: "... surely the most wonderfully responsive engine available today at any price."

Best Ride MOTOR TREND magazine calls Chevy "... the smoothest, most quiet, softest riding car in its price class." You'll be able to tell this yourself instantly, once you take the wheel.

Best Economy No doubt about this: two Chevrolet 6's won their class in the famous Mobilgas Economy Run, got the best mileage of any full-size car, 22.38 miles per gallon—with Powerglide.

Best Trade-In Check in any N.A.A.T. Guide Book. Chevy used car prices last year averaged up to $128 higher than comparable models of the "other two."

THE STORY BY NORMAN DANIELS

MAN DANIELS

...Diane Paige has five-year old girl she is wading in the water. The owner of the beach resort, Mr. and Mrs. Casey Paige, who are a couple, know of the child.

...child awakened, Diane began to reach for the little girl who drew back.

...her arms fall to her sides.

...she said, "I found something to help you like what I found. And all your things and ironed. I'll have to wash them, and first, of all, I'll have to wash."

...made no protest at the application of soap and water, nor to the patting of the towel. She permitted Diane Paige to hold her steady while she put on her socks and shoes, panties, slip and dress.

...Then the child stepped in front of the door mirror and surveyed herself very much as an adult would. But if she was pleased, she gave no indication of it.

...Diane said, "Can you speak, little girl? Can you say your name? I told you, mine is Diane."

...The little girl walked gravely away, toward the kitchen where the table was spread. Diane shook her head, followed and sat down too.

...The little girl waited patiently until she was served and then she ate silently and seriously, like some small child without a tongue and without the power to display emotion.

...I bought a great deal of milk and cookies," Diane offered. "Just in case you stay with me for a while. I'll make you some ice cream later. Would you like that?"

A pair of enormous eyes simply looked at her. Diane watched the child eat. She did it mechanically, as if she were hungry, but the food had no other meaning to her. She accepted the candy after wards and placed it in the pocket of her dried out — and badly shrunken coat.

"Darling," Diane said, "you can understand what I'm saying. I know you can. Perhaps you're unable to speak, except to cry out when you are held, but even so, you know what I'm saying. I want you to move your head up and down like this..." She demonstrated, "whenever you mean yes, or you like something. We'll try that now. Do you like candy?"

Diane winced inwardly. Those eyes were so blank and yet there was so much adult emotion behind them. The kind no child of her age should have. It seemed as if this stifled emotional block must be broken through, before the child would talk — if she could.

"Well," Diane gave up, "all we can do, is wait for the constable. He'll know how to find your parents. Meanwhile, you'll just be my guest. Isn't that nice?"

With a sigh, game arose from the table and walked out to the living room. There was still a box of groceries in the station wagon, canned and packaged things which could be put away at leisure and now was the time to do it.

The little girl sat down on the edge of a chair facing the fireplace and remained there, quite content to do absolutely nothing. Diane opened the door and went out busily to fetch the groceries. She didn't see the child slide to the floor and begin running across the room in a new-found terror that made her tremble.

Then she saw Diane drag the box out of the back of the car and she retreated into the room again to stand and watch, as if that might be sure to bring Diane back.

On top of the box of groceries, was the beaten-up Teddy bear. It wasn't much of a toy, but it might whet her interest, so Diane sat the bear up so that it peered lucidly over the top of the box. She carried it into the parlor.

The little girl, watching with those great eyes, suddenly ran toward Diane. "Suzy," she shrieked.

Diane almost dropped the box. She was about to say her name wasn't Suzy, but the little girl's attention was on the Teddy bear. She waved her arms, clamoring for the doll. Diane bent, lowering the box so the child could reach the Teddy bear. She hugged it to her.

"Suzy... Suzy," she said again, and patted the rough surface of the bear as if it were alive.

Diane placed the box on a chair and knelt before the child again.

clerk read the verdict of guilty of first-degree murder. When the 3 1/2-week trial was adjourned, Mrs. Klump told Bill Williams, Wigglesworth, "Let's get out of here." She was led off to her cell.

Mrs. Klump, twice divorced and mother of four, was convicted of shooting and beating Mrs. Bergen, 32, to death last Oct. 30. She and Mrs. Bergen's estranged husband William, 30, had been living together for several months. Mrs. Klump admitted burning Mrs. Bergen's body at Lake Cowan the following day.

The state claimed Mrs. Klump feared Bergen intended to return to his wife and that Mrs. Klump needed his financial aid to get a loan on her home to prevent it from being sold at public auction.

Mrs. Klump contended the shooting in her car on a secluded park street was accidental. She testified Mrs. Bergen was pointing the gun at her and that it discharged as they fought for it.

Other misc. farm and dairy items. This sale is held due to Mr. Budd having extensive beef cattle and farming interest, and does not have time to devote to same.

The older cows were bought as helpers 4 years ago in Wisconsin by Mr. Budd and nothing over a third calf. The younger cattle all raised from the Wisconsin heifers. Come see these cattle any time before sale. Positively nothing sold before sale. If you want to see them call Mr. Kelly Budd, Telephone 2-21919 Texarkana, and he will take you out to the dairies.

KELLY BUDD, Owner
Texarkana, Ark.

New Adventure

The Magic Circle curves south from Grand Junction (U. S. 50) through a farming valley to Delta, then east (State 92) to Hotchkiss and on through Somerset. When the pavement ends seven miles east, an adventure in real mountain beauty begins. Once over McClure's Pass (State 133) our most stunning views and color slides come from stops along the tumbling sage arroyo rapids of Crystal River, in a canyon whose walls are colored a dusty rose.

In this wilderness setting is Redstone, a tiny village of log houses in the shadow of a famed inn of another era. The central building has been returned to its former elegance, abetted by a new lodge with a glass-covered swimming pool and greenhouse. In the background is Chair Mountain, upholstered with a fluffy white cushion of snow that never melts. A ski tow is being constructed to give Western Colorado another winter sports center.

From Redstone we followed Crystal River down past the benign giant called Mt. Sopris for a visit to Aspen. This silver mining town of the 1890's and its fabulous old Hotel Jerome, have been restored to fame through the summer music festival, design conferences and an institute for intellectual and physical stimulation of business executives. In the winter it converts into a famed ski resort and headquarters for dog-sled trips. But fishing for big mountain trout in this valley of the Roaring Fork River still continues to be a top attraction.

Hidden Beauty

Climax of the Magic Circle around the scenic heart of the Rockies comes at the Maroon Bells. This masterpiece of nature is hidden just 10 miles off the highway (State 82) from Aspen back to Glenwood Springs.

The coral colored dirt road is a fantasy of light and shadow, formed by a canopy of spruce and white-barked quaking aspen trees. Mountain meadows are vivid with orange and blue wildflowers. Secluded camp grounds, maintained by the U. S. Forest Service, are spotted along the grass carpeted edge of Maroon Creek.

After nine miles of forest road, the first inspiring view of the Maroon Bells comes with dramatic suddenness. The canyon widens out into a green valley where fat cattle are grazing; then, as you drive across a cattle-guard, the snow-tipped peaks loom into the sky.

Even the very young are silent when they get out of the car a mile later at the road's end. Across the green waters of Maroon Lake, the mighty granite pillars rise a sheer 14,126 feet with the appearance of three mauve bells having been welded together. At dawn they take on the maroon color reflected from the flanking red canyon walls.

Symbols of Love

...the Eagle and the Flag. They are signals of warning that declare we are a free people. A land where every man may worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience. The Eagle is for strength and elevation of thought and purpose. The Flag is for loyalty and sacrifice. One tells of greater dreams for tomorrow... the other calls to mind heroic service rendered by the good and the great. Liberty loving fathers formed this government, "of the people, by the people, for the people." It was founded on the brotherhood of man because here, the Fatherhood of God existed. God's Book is the source of our freedom. July the Fourth is the birthday of our independence. God bless all the Americas and make us a channel of blessing to all the world.
